

What is Stokes Works?

Stokes Works is a brand new career development program available to Stokes County residents who are unemployed or are unable to make ends meet at their current job. Job and employment skills training will be offered at no cost to those who exhibit financial need. Along with skills training, Stokes Works will partner with various community agencies to provide each participant with the services needed to overcome barriers and embark upon a pathway to success. A case staffer will help navigate each participant through the process. With many different career options, courses, and certifications to choose from, Stokes Works is the perfect opportunity for anyone looking to get back to work!

Why Stokes Works is Different

Case Staffing

Each Stokes Works participant will be assigned a case manager who will guide them through the Stokes Works program by coordinating assessment, training, and other services as needed. This is done to ensure that each and every client has a firm foundation for success.

Job Consortium

The job consortium is a unique employer-driven training program. The consortium will give clients multiple opportunities to interact with potential employers during informal discussion sessions. The goal of the consortium is to connect the jobseeker to employment opportunities in the community.
